Google Censored And Gagged Right Side Broadcaster From Livestreaming Trump Indictment Coverage In Attempt To Control The Narrative As Manhattan DA Opens Pandora's Box

We have shown previously how Google works to help Democrats control the narrative as they disabled ad serving on ANP for daring to contradict the "authoritative, scientific consensus," in a number of matters, such as election news, climate change, and Covid.

Now we see Google is up to their old tricks again by targeting Right Side Broadcasting News. RSBN often offers live coverage of events, with commentary from a conservative angle to counter the "official narrative" often mimicked by liberal MSM news outlets.

RSBN's YouTube (owned by Google) account has been suspended from posting new livestream news.

RSBN is covering Tuesday's events, including the Donald Trump indictment, and speeches expected by President Trump outside the courthouse in Manhattan, and later from the President's home Mar-a-Largo in Florida later in the day/evening.

AUBURN, Ala. — Just one day before RSBN was set to cover President Trump's arraignment in Manhattan, YouTube has resumed its censorship practices and suspended RSBN's channel, blocking our ability to livestream for seven days.

On Monday, RSBN received a notice from YouTube informing us that due to content violating their "elections misinformation" policies, the platform has removed several videos. These include President Trump's most recent rally in Waco, Texas, his remarks at CPAC, and our exclusive sit-down interview with him at Mar-a-Lago.

YouTube listed the following violations:

- “Claims that the 2020 US Presidential election and 2022 Brazil Presidential election were stolen,”*
- “Content that advances false claims that widespread fraud, errors, or glitches occurred in the 2020 U.S. presidential election or the 2022 Brazilian presidential election,”*
- Absence of “countervailing views” in the “video, audio, title, or description.”*

As a result of these violations, YouTube has also issued a strike on our channel and temporarily banned our account.

“Accordingly, the videos have been removed and a strike has been applied to the channel, and as a result, uploads and live streams by your account are suspended for a week. You can read more about our strikes system here,” a YouTube representative told RSN.

Conveniently, YouTube’s Orwellian censorship practices have returned just one day before President Trump is arraigned in a gross weaponization of the justice system. Rather than allowing RSN to show a countervailing view to the mainstream media’s version of the arraignment, they are simply shutting down our efforts. Again, they are leaving millions of Americans voiceless in the face of tyranny.

However, this is not our first rodeo. RSN is fully prepared to move full steam ahead with Tuesday’s all-day live coverage of pro-Trump protests in Manhattan and President Trump’s press conference at Mar-a-Lago.
