Ed Dowd was a money manager on Wall Street and is still a skillful number cruncher. He worked for Black Rock and made billions of dollars in profits by being right on the data. Now, Dowd has turned his skills toward the numbers of deaths and serious injuries surrounding the CV19 bioweapon vax. He sees a very dark and disturbing future taking shape. Dowd explains, “We did our vaccine damage report after months and months of collecting data. There are three buckets. There are the dead, disabled and injured. The dead is easy enough to find . . . it's excess mortality. In 2021 and 2022, it's over 300,000 deaths, and that's probably on the low side.

There are 1.36 million disabled from the vax, and that is a conservative number. Finally, 26.6 million people are injured. . . . Antidotally, it is all making sense. Everyone is reporting coworkers that are chronically ill and sick. The worktime data is really the smoking gun. It went 13 standard deviations above the 20-year trendline in 2022. . . . It went up in 2020, and then it went up again in 2021, but it exploded in 2022 well after the virus and well into the CV19 vaccine program. It is a stunning a 13 standard deviation event. It is a 'Black Swan' event.

This affects 10 percent of the total population, but 30% of the labor force. There is about 100 million to 110 million in the labor force. With the injured, disabled and the dead, it's about 28.9 million. That's about 30% of the labor force that has died, been disabled or is chronically sick. This is going to have huge implications on productivity going forward.”

On the U.S. dollar, Dowd says it's not going down in the near term. Dowd contends, “We are predicting deflation, which will be good for the dollar. It's pretty much bad for every other asset class.”

On the ongoing banking crisis, Dowd says, “The regional bank stocks are getting slaughtered. When you raise interest rates 500 basis points or 5% in a little over 12 months after a 14-year 0% interest rate regime, you are going to leave tremendous skid marks, and the skid marks are the regional banks, unfortunately, because they have a lot of commercial real estate. This is not the end of the crisis, it is the beginning.”

Dowd see’s a “deep recession” coming soon. He also says it is going to be at least as bad as the savings and loan crisis in the early 1990s, but he says all bets are off if the Fed loses control of the economy. That, too, is a good possibility.

Dowd says one really “disturbing” thing is how everyone in power is ignoring the CV19 bioweapon/vax unfolding disaster. Dowd is surprised there are “no investigations or hearings in Congress” and is also surprised no one is asking for his stunning CV19 vax data.

Dowd says, “They all want to hope it’s going to go away, but it’s not going to go away because the numbers are so big. . . . My book “Cause Unknown” was written for loved ones who think everything is hunky-dory. When you look at the numbers, you have to ask yourself why aren’t we talking about this? We have pandemic numbers now. It’s way more in the 2020 time frame.

We have a pandemic. It's the pandemic of the vaccinated. . . . I think if we don't do something soon, the country is gone. . . .No one is taking action.”
