

summit.news

Poll: Eight In Ten Americans Worried Biden's Bumbling Will Lead To NUCLEAR WAR

Published 2 days ago on 28 March, 2022 Steve Watson

13-16 minutes

World at War

Biden approval falls to record low amid Russia regime change call

Anton Petrus / Getty Images

Joe Biden, the man who 'won' an election with a record number of votes now has a record low approval rating with just 40% expressing content with his handling of the presidency.

An NBC poll released Sunday revealed that 55 percent of respondents disapprove of Biden's performance, meaning Biden has seen a 3-percentage-point drop in job approval since January.

"What this poll says is that President Biden and Democrats are headed for a catastrophic election," Republican pollster Bill McInturff of Public Opinions Strategy, who conducted this survey with Democratic pollster Jeff Horwitt of Hart Research Associates, told NBC News.

The poll also found that 7 out of 10 Americans expressed low confidence in his ability to handle the ongoing conflict between Russia and Ukraine.

A further 8 in 10 say they are worried mishandling of the crisis will lead to NUCLEAR WAR.

The findings come in the wake of Biden blurting out that Vladimir Putin cannot remain in power in Russia during a speech over the weekend.

Administration officials attempted to walk back the comments, with Biden himself later being forced to claim that he didn't mean he was advocating regime change in Russia.

The Kremlin responded to Biden's comments with spokesman Dmitry Peskov stating "We will continue to closely monitor the statements by the president of the United States", adding "We carefully record them and will continue to do so".

In the past fortnight, Biden has called Putin a 'war criminal' and a 'butcher'.

Biden also refused to rule out a nuclear first strike on Russia, and even told U.S. troops last week that they will likely be sent to Ukraine:

Any doubt has been removed: the Biden Admin's goal is not to mitigate conflict in Ukraine, but further inflame it. Rejecting ceasefire negotiations, dumping vast amounts weapons, engineering more NATO expansion, threatening to send troops, and now even threatening to depose Putin

— Michael Tracey (@mtracey) March 27, 2022

SUBSCRIBE on YouTube:

Follow on Twitter:

Follow @PrisonPlanet

Brand new merch now available! Get it at

<https://www.pjwshop.com/>

ALERT! In the age of mass Silicon Valley censorship It is crucial that we stay in touch.

We need you to sign up for our free newsletter here.

Support our sponsor – Turbo Force – a supercharged boost of clean energy without the comedown.

Also, we urgently need your financial support here.

•

World at War

Someone really wants World War Three to happen

Published

14 hours ago

on

29 March, 2022

Steve Watson

Cem Ozdel/Anadolu Agency via Getty Images

Reports are circulating that peace negotiators attempting to diffuse the conflict between Russia and the Ukraine were fed poison earlier this month as a way of getting them to stop their efforts to bring about peace.

The Wall Street Journal picked up on a report from Dutch based Bellingcat which details how Russian oligarch Roman Abramovich, thought to be a close confidant of Vladimir Putin, as well as at least two Ukrainian negotiators fell ill with symptoms of poisoning on the night of March 3, directly after holding peace negotiations.

Bellingcat can confirm that three members of the delegation attending the peace talks between Ukraine and Russia on the night of 3 to 4 March 2022 experienced symptoms consistent with poisoning with chemical weapons. One of victims was Russian entrepreneur Roman Abramovich. <https://t.co/DJaZ4CoL8J>

— Bellingcat (@bellincat) March 28, 2022

Three members of the negotiating team retreated to an apartment in Kyiv later that night and felt initial symptoms – including eye and skin inflammation and piercing pain in the eyes – later that night.

The symptoms did not abate until the morning.

— Bellingcat (@bellincat) March 28, 2022

It is suggested that poison was placed into chocolate and left the victims temporarily blind and shedding skin, but the dosage was so low that it wasn't intended to kill them.

It is not known what substance was used as a poison, but the intimation is that Russian hardliners intent on continuing the conflict are to blame.

Speaking about the alleged incident, Bellingcat investigator Christo

Grozev said of Abramovich “he volunteered to play... this role of (an) honest broker, but other oligarchs had... declared certain independence from the Kremlin position and criticise(d) the war.”

“So it could well be seen as a warning sign to them to not join the ranks of those who dissent, and to not be too much of an honest broker,” Grozev added.

U.S. intelligence has responded to the revelations, suggesting that it doubts the story is true and that the symptoms experienced by Abramovich and the others were likely environmental.

Ukrainian presidential adviser Mikhail Podolyak, who is also involved in the peace negotiations told Reuters “there is a lot of speculation, various conspiracy theories,” and Rustem Umerov, a negotiator apparently affected declared that he is fine and that people should not trust “unverified information”.

The Kremlin has said that the reports are untrue and part of the ongoing “information warfare”.

Abramovich himself has not commented on the reports.

The negotiations continue in Turkey, however those involved have been warned not to eat or drink anything offered to them.

Ukrainian foreign minister Dmytro Kuleba warned “I advise anyone going for negotiations with Russia not to eat or drink any thing, (and) preferably avoid touching surfaces.”

SUBSCRIBE on YouTube:

Follow on Twitter:

Follow @PrisonPlanet

Brand new merch now available! Get it at

<https://www.pjwshop.com/>

ALERT! In the age of mass Silicon Valley censorship It is crucial that we stay in touch.

We need you to sign up for our free newsletter here.

Support our sponsor – Turbo Force – a supercharged boost of clean energy without the comedown.

Also, we urgently need your financial support here.

-

World at War

“He’s sending signals that no one in their right mind would want to send to Russia at this point.”

Published

15 hours ago

on

29 March, 2022

Steve Watson

Screenshot

Following Joe Biden's unscripted blurting out that Vladimir Putin 'cannot remain in power', and another bizarre appearance Monday where he appeared to rely on cue cards, Senator Rand Paul warned that it is becoming a "national security risk".

Appearing on Fox News, Paul noted "A lot of times when you're around somebody who's in cognitive decline, you find yourself trying to help them with a sentence, trying to help them complete it... but we shouldn't have to do that for the commander-in-chief."

Biden had to have "I was not articulating a change in policy" written verbatim on a notecard so he wouldn't screw it up... and he still screwed it up pic.twitter.com/OvEwIHQVry

— Jake Schneider (@jacobkschneider) March 28, 2022

Paul continued, "And, it is actually a national security risk because he's sending signals that no one in their right mind would want to send to Russia at this point. We aren't trying to replace Putin in Russia. We aren't trying to have regime change. We're not sending troops into Ukraine, and we're not going to respond in kind with chemical weapons."

The Senator urged that Biden "lives in an alternate universe" where he blurts out whatever he pleases then claims then way it was perceived isn't accurate.

"So I guess you're supposed to look the other way. But even the left-wing media is noticing these gaffes," Paul asserted.

"I do think that it is a real problem, and there's a humorous angle to this. But it's really not funny because we're worried about what he's saying, precipitating or escalating the conflict in Ukraine into a world war. That's very serious," Paul further emphasised.

Watch:

As we noted yesterday, An NBC poll released Sunday revealed that 8 in 10 Americans say they are worried that Biden's bumbling and mishandling of the Ukraine situation will lead to a NUCLEAR WAR.

In addition to declaring that Putin cannot remain in power, Biden called the Russian leader a "butcher," and last also appeared to tell U.S. troops they would be deployed to the Ukraine.

When he was questioned by Fox reporter Peter Doocy Monday about the comments, Biden claimed that none of those things happened, and that nothing he said was being walked back, despite clear statements from the White House doing exactly that:

Doocy: "The big things you say on the world stage keep getting walked back."

Biden: "What's getting walked backed?"

Biden: You told troops they are going to Ukraine, the U.S. would use a chemical weapon, and called for regime change in Russia.

Biden: "None of the 3 occurred." pic.twitter.com/cwZPzANloC

— Greg Price (@greg_price11) March 28, 2022

Tucker Carlson labelled Biden's persistent outbursts as "dangerous" and "crazed recklessness, noting "a gaffe is when you mispronounce somebody's name. Telling troops you're going to be sent to Ukraine, pledging the United States is going to use chemical weapons? These are not gaffes, these are something else."

Yesterday, Biden said American troops have been fighting in Ukraine & more are headed to fight there.

Today, Biden said the goal of U.S. policy to Russia is regime change.

Recall, the media called for the 25th amendment when Trump sipped water or walked down ramps carefully.

— Max Abrahms (@MaxAbrahms) March 26, 2022

The establishment media is running defense:

CNN's @DonLemon defends Biden: "He did not end that speech saying that Vladimir Putin should be removed or we're going to take him out of power. He said this man should not remain in power ...

this is a media-manufactured story," "blown out of proportion"

pic.twitter.com/6gSWQvdQuF

— Tom Elliott (@tomselliott) March 28, 2022

Imagine President Trump had inexplicably told U.S. troops they were deploying to fight Russia.

Really imagine it!

All we'd be hearing is that he's mentally unfit and must be removed under the 25th Amendment.

Joe Biden did the same thing today.

But the media has his back...

— Clint Ehrlich (@ClintEhrlich) March 26, 2022

Biden is a puppet. No one thinks he is making the decisions. Just declares war on Russia and keeps talking like nothing happened.

Take the keys away <https://t.co/RICcmpQ10J>

— Metabiota Poso 🧬 (@JackPosobiec) March 25, 2022

SUBSCRIBE on YouTube:

Follow on Twitter:

Follow @PrisonPlanet

Brand new merch now available! Get it at

<https://www.pjwshop.com/>

ALERT! In the age of mass Silicon Valley censorship It is crucial that we stay in touch.

We need you to sign up for our free newsletter here.

Support our sponsor – Turbo Force – a supercharged boost of clean energy without the comedown.

Also, we urgently need your financial support here.

•

World at War

The 'good guys' strike again.

Published

2 days ago

on

28 March, 2022

Video Screenshot

Footage posted to Twitter shows what appears to be Ukrainian soldiers calling up the mothers of dead Russian soldiers killed in action and mocking them over their loss.

Yes, really.

“Pro-Ukraine accounts on Twitter translated the videos and celebrated the heinous acts with glee,” writes Chris Menahan.

translation pic.twitter.com/YQkeye5KfA

— Angelo Giuliano (@Angelo4justice3) March 25, 2022

A translation of the exchange reveals that the soldier tells the mother “this fucking moron is no more,” informing her that all that was left of him was “his ass and a leg.”

The Ukrainian appeared to be using the phone that belonged to the dead Russian to call his mother.

An alleged neo-nazi Azov Battalion member named Ivan Zaliznyak uploaded the video and five others to his Telegram channel.

The sound of weeping Russian mothers will soon pierce the Kremlin's walls 🇺🇦✂️ pic.twitter.com/PTg7rdguxQ

— 🇺🇦 Tanya 🇺🇦 🇺🇦 (@WarLoli333) March 25, 2022

The clips hardly do much to bolster the narrative, relentlessly amplified by the legacy media, that the Ukrainians are the 'good guys'.

Over the weekend, horrific footage emerged of Ukrainian fighters committing literal war crimes by shooting captured Russian soldiers in the knees and watching them die in agony.

However, that doesn't seem to have deterred the 'Ukrainian flag in my Twitter bio' crowd, who seem more hopped up on signaling their virtue than ever before.

18+ (21+)

Ukrainian soldiers shoot Russian prisoners of war in the legs and afterwards give them a severe beating. At the beginning of the video, there are Russian POWs lying on the ground with bullet wounds in their legs, some of them have got leg bones broken.

#WarCrimes pic.twitter.com/t8Wj33X8rv

— Maria Dubovikova (@politblogme) March 27, 2022

SUBSCRIBE on YouTube:

Follow on Twitter: Follow @PrisonPlanet

Brand new merch now available! Get it at

<https://www.pjwshop.com/>

ALERT!

In the age of mass Silicon Valley censorship It is crucial that we stay in touch.

I need you to sign up for my free newsletter here.

Support my sponsor – Turbo Force – a supercharged boost of clean energy without the comedown.

Get early access, exclusive content and behinds the scenes stuff by following me on Locals.
