Classic Criminal Behavior: 'At This Point, It's a Cover-Up,' and They're Tripling Down [VIDEO]

“This is not something they don’t see,” said Ed Dowd in an interview with Tony Lyons of Skyhorse Publishing. Ed is a former Blackrock Executive and vaccine skeptic who’s been looking closely at excess mortality and disability in relation to the Covid-19 injections. And in an effort to put a damning list of compiled evidence together, he's writing “Cause Unknown,” which releases in December.

So you think that leading public health officials or organizations will be shocked by any of the data in this book? Or do you think that they all know what's in this book; they've been watching it — and they're just sort of using propaganda and censorship to keep this information from the public?

They see what we see — undoubtedly. This is not something that they don't see. So that then begs the question: why did they just approve COVID vaccines for the child vaccine schedule? That's a legal trick. And it's also what criminals do when they're caught; they double and triple down. I saw this in corporate fraud after corporate fraud. When suspicions arise, and it looks like there might be fraud, the corporate CEOs continue to lie until they're caught by the regulators. And in fact, I've seen many great institutional investors ride stocks all the way down because they had access to the CEO and the CFO. And those guys would lie to them while they were selling their own stock. And these poor individuals were still holding. So it's classic criminal behavior. They know [what's going on with the jabs], and that is one of the biggest problems we've seen.

While writing this book, Gavin de Becker and Ed discussed criminal intention.

“Why this happened? Who did it? Why?” but they decided to ditch that section in the book because “The data speaks for itself.”

We made a little comment in the book where we say, “At this point, they see what we see, and it’s a cover-up and criminal negligence because they’re not acting [on their mistakes].”

So we don’t need to know why – who. All we need to know is it’s [excess death and morbidity] occurring, and the damage is there, and they see it. So this is one of the greatest cover-ups we’ve ever seen.

Red Voice Media would like to make a point of clarification on why we do not refer to any shot related to COVID-19 as a "vaccine." According to the CDC, the definition of a vaccine necessitates that said vaccine have a lasting effect of at least one year in preventing the contraction of the virus or disease it's intended to fight. Because all of the COVID-19 shots thus far available have barely offered six months of protection, and even then not absolute, Red Voice Media has made the decision hereafter to no longer refer to the Pfizer, Moderna, or Johnson & Johnson substances as vaccinations.
